Angel Archie to the Rescue

There was a dark, dark house, with a dark, dark room,
and in the dark, dark room, there were dark, dark curtains,
and behind the dark, dark curtains...

was an Angel named Archie who cheered...

“Open the curtains,

Don’t turn on the light.

Mother Nature has sunshine

To make this room bright.”

While flying around Archie began coughing and gagging. His watery eyes watched as his white gown turned grey. He had flown into a thick dirty haze - pollution made from cars.

“Cars create grey air,
People breathe in this haze,
I must get people out of their cars
And change their lazy ways.”

“I still have lots to teach them,
Have them all plant a tree,
Make compost using food scraps,
And house clean chemical free.

We’ll get there, Mother Nature,
Our mission I know is steep,
One by one they’re learning
But for now I have to sleep.”

Archie’s eyelids were struggling to stay open
so Mother Nature wrapped her clouds around him, sprinkled stardust on his wings for energy and blew him
a big moon kiss for all he had done.

The End

Share with Me

1. Does Archie want you to turn lights on or let the sunshine brighten a room?
2. Should we reuse water on the garden or let it go down the drain?
3. Would Mother Nature rather we walk or drive a car to the shops?
4. Is litter good for our animals and sea creatures to eat?
5. What is something you could make out of a cardboard box?
6. Show me how you dance the 'Archie's wave of words' move?
